10:00 am – 10:20 am	Opening Ceremonies <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Opening video • Emcee: Amrita Cheema, News Anchor & Journalist, DW News and Current Affairs • Dr. Kai Andrejewski, Regional Chairman, KPMG • Message from Prime Minister Trudeau • Farah Mohamed, CEO, G(irls)20 • Introduction of Delegates
	Introduction of Panel I: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Emcee: Amrita Cheema, News Anchor & Journalist, DW News and Current Affairs
10:20 am – 11:17 am	PANEL I: DIGITAL ECONOMY Moderator: Rebecca Nevraumont, President, THI Limited Context: Increasingly the world is transitioning to a digital economy and the impacts are felt around the world. High income countries have gender inequities in STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Mathematics, Design). Middle and low income countries face infrastructure, educational and skilled work force limitations. This impacts all women as technological advances replace their traditional jobs and their low involvement in STEM education and careers further lessens their employment opportunities. At the same time, the digital world provides women with unprecedented, incredible access to information, collaboration, resources, entrepreneurship and employment. The challenge is how to provide access for all women globally – to educate, mentor and create employment in the technology sector so that women can leverage the digital economy for advancement. Setting the stage: Christiane Noll, Country Manager, Avanade Austria Video: The Inclusive Growth and Development Report 2015 Panel: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Christiane Noll, Country Manager, Avanade Austria • Rachael Balsillie, Digital Marketer, Shopify • Marieme Jamme, Founder, I Am The Code

11:30 am – 12:15 am	PANEL II: ENERGY & CLIMATE CHANGE Moderator: Lisa Witter, Co-founder and Chairperson, Apolitical & G(irls)20 Global Advisor Context: Women are effective agents of change. They have a strong body of knowledge and expertise that can contribute to climate change mitigation, disaster reduction and adaptation strategies. Energy is at the center of the climate change discussion. Traditional sources of energy - electricity, coal and fossil fuels- have climatic impacts and are not always available or affordable for many in developing economies. What are the alternative energy sources; what is being done so women can utilize locally available resources such as solar power systems, bio-fuels, and energy efficient, economical devices? Panel: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Bitu Daryan, Future Research, Strategy & Foresight Volkswagen Group Research • Katrin Puetz, Founder, (B)Energy • Mrs. Bergmann-Nolting, Investment Director, E.ON

2:15 pm – 3:00 pm	PANEL III: MIGRATION Moderator: Suzanne de Lint, Partner, Head of KPMG’s Global Immigration Network Context: Around the world, more people are on the move than ever before. Many of them are seeking new opportunities and a better life for themselves and their families. Others are forced to move due to disaster or conflict. Gender is central to any discussion of the causes and consequences of regular and irregular migration and forced displacement. It is now understood that a person’s sex and gender identity shape all aspects of the migration experience. Gender influences reasons for migrating, who will migrate, the social networks migrants use to move, integration experiences, labour opportunities at destination, and relations with the country of origin. The expectations, relationships and power dynamics associated with being a man, woman, boy or girl, can significantly affect all aspects of this process. Setting the stage: Louise Arbour, UN High Commissioner on Migration (by video) Panel: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Christine Mendonca, CEO, Humans on the Move • Zarah Bruhn, Founder & CEO, Social-Bee gGmbH • Ana María Alvarez Monge, CEO and Co-Founder, Migration Hub
